四、閱讀測驗:選出	最適當的答案
For the normal emo	otional and physical develo	nment of infants stimulation	n ia nagagawa Hlal. 1 11

For the normal emotional and physical development of infants, stimulation is necessary. Healthy babies experience this stimulation while in contact with the mother or other adults who feed or wash the infant. However, infants who are born prematurely or are sick miss these experiences during the early weeks of their lives when they live in incubators, an artificial environment devoid of normal stimuli. These babies tend to become listless and seem uninterested in their surroundings. However, when they are stimulated by being handled and spoken to and by being provided with bright objects, they begin to respond by smiling, becoming more active physically, and gaining weight more rapidly.

- 36. What is the main idea expressed in the passage?
 - (A) The importance of incubators for sick infants (B) The importance of stimulation for newborn infants
 - (C) The functions of incubators
- (D) The normal development of babies
- 37. According to the passage, which of the following is a correct statement about infants and their stimulation needs?
 - (A) Healthy infants fail to receive sufficient stimulation.
 - (B) Stimulation is harmful especially for premature infants.
 - (C) Healthy infants don't need stimulation.
 - (D) Incubators do not provide adequate infant stimulation.
